

DEAN OF THE INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

The University of Minnesota is seeking an experienced leader for the position of Dean of the Institute of Technology. This senior administrative position reports to the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. Responsibilities include enhancing the Institute's national and international standing as a premier college of science, engineering, and technology in a major urban, public land-grant, research university; providing leadership to focus the intellectual direction of the Institute; creating an environment that attracts talented faculty and staff and promotes excellence in teaching, research, and outreach; cultivating relationships both within the University and with the broader community; and ensuring the long-term financial viability of the Institute and its programs.

Candidates must have an earned doctorate or requisite terminal degree in a relevant field; a record of teaching, research and scholarly distinction commensurate with appointment as a tenured professor; and meet the qualifications for tenure at the University of Minnesota. Additional qualifications include a distinguished record of professional accomplishment in the academy and in the scientific community; significant management and leadership experience, preferably in a university or comparably complex organization, including demonstrated ability to lead strategic and short-term planning; proven ability to obtain external funding, demonstrated success in fundraising, ability to work with external constituencies including industrial partners, legislators, and donor communities.
